Mission of the EAA

The European Accounting Association (EAA) aims to link together the community of accounting scholars and researchers to provide a platform for the wider dissemination of accounting research, and to foster and improve research in order to ensure the development and the promotion of accounting as well as the improvement of teaching skills. It also aims at the development of relations with all other professional and research-oriented associations, which are active in the field of accounting, as well as with European or international committees and authorities concerned with political decision making in this field.

An overview of the EAA community and its activities are provided in the brochure “40 Years - European Accounting Association”.

The EAA pursues this mission by organizing the following activities: the Annual Congress, the Doctoral Colloquium, the PhD forum, the Accounting Research Center, the Talent Workshop and the Newsletter. All these activities present opportunities for sponsoring, support and networking. The objectives of each of these activities will be explained below together with the opportunities for support, sponsoring and networking. The related amounts are presented on a separate page.
1. THE ANNUAL CONGRESS

Congress Objectives

The EAA links the international accounting research community to practitioners and policy makers in order to provide a platform for the wider dissemination of excellent accounting research. The EAA Annual Congress is a major event on the international accounting calendar and attracts delegates from across the globe. The congress is organized into research streams including Auditing, Financial Reporting and Analysis, Management Accounting, Corporate Governance, Taxation and Information Systems. It also has a number of research symposia in which contemporary concerns are discussed by leading practitioners and academics. The congress presents exciting network and marketing opportunities for your organization.

2. DOCTORAL COLLOQUIUM

Objectives

The aim of the Doctoral Colloquium is to provide an opportunity for doctoral students, pursuing a PhD in accounting at a European academic institution or university to present and discuss their research with one of the 12 distinguished international faculty. Each year 36 students are selected out of 110-130 applying students. Overviews of the current state of accounting research will also be included in the program of the Colloquium, as well as social events which will provide an opportunity for students to interact informally both with each other and the faculty. The Doctoral Colloquium provides not only a way of stimulating sound doctoral research, but it also establishes and enhances a network of cross-national contacts between younger accounting researchers. Students selected to participate in the Colloquium will be offered hotel accommodation for the duration of the Colloquium (three days) and a fee waiver for the EAA congress which is usually held immediately after the Doctoral Colloquium.

3. PHD FORUM

Objectives

In order to reach out to more PhD students at the annual congress, each year in the morning before the start of the congress the PhD research forum is organized. This PhD research forum is usually attended by more than 150 PhD students. At the PhD research forum the PhD students get information on the state of the art research in a number of specific domains accounting. In addition sessions on how to approach the job market and to pursue an academic career are organized.
4. ARC

Objectives

To fulfill the dual objectives of improving research and enhancing the relationships between accounting scholars and practitioners, the EAA launched a web platform called the EAA Accounting Research Center (ARC).

The ARC targets doctoral students and early career academics, as well as participants in Master’s Degree programs in accounting. The purpose of the EAA-ARC is to help this target audience to improve their research and analytical skills and establish their own international networks. Therefore, the EAA-ARC consists of four major parts: (1) education/training; (2) feedback; (3) networking; and (4) information for MSc Students.

- The first part ‘Education/Training’ provides online resources and information on the state of the art of accounting research through sharing education material used at EAA doctoral events, through a repository of reading materials and through bundling information on all doctoral workshops, conferences and seminars organized for PhD students and young academics all over Europe.

- The second part ‘Feedback’ provides a submission platform where PhD students, early in their PhD project, can submit their research proposal to senior academics willing to provide feedback on their projects. All senior academics cooperate on a voluntary and non-remunerated basis. The pool of senior academics cooperating in this feedback service will be monitored by the EAA.

- The third part ‘Networking’ enables networking within the target audiences. This element of the EAA-ARC will provide users with opportunities to create an international network. ARC provides the most comprehensive list of accounting research events (workshops, conferences, summer camps) in the world. In addition, PhD students can view short-stay research visiting opportunities at selected European institutions.

- The fourth part of the EAA-ARC ‘Information for MSc Students’ provides information to Master students about PhD programs, the characteristics of a PhD project and the steps in an academic career.

Sponsorship opportunities

* 4.1 logo of the sponsor on the opening page for a period of 12 months: click-through logo, static logo, logo on a rolling banner

* 4.2 logo of the sponsor on the events’ calendar page for a period of 12 months: click-through logo, static logo, logo on a rolling banner

* 4.3 Advertisement on opening page for 1 month
5. TALENT WORKSHOP

Objectives

The EAA aims to build bridges between young talent and academic institutions. In addition, to short-term initiatives aiming at providing placement for PhD students and faculty for one semester and/or an academic year, an increasing number of universities and business schools enforce non-inbreeding policies on their PhD students. In turn, the wide implementation of these policies has brought about significant increases in the long-term mobility rate of faculty across countries and regions. Although the Internet provides a helpful venue to advertise opening positions as well as expressions of interest, there is still room for improvement. Combining the strengths of the web and face-to-face initiatives, the EAA already organized the 5th edition of its job market, a Talent Workshop, for accounting academics in Madrid.

PhD Students

PhD students interested in participating in the job market as candidates have to prepare the following documents: their job market paper, resume and brief research statement.

Participation in the Talent Workshop is free for accepted candidates, and this will cover their participation in the scientific program, interviews with recruiters, and coffee breaks. Participation to the Talent Workshop is free, because the participating institutions finance the organization of the Talent Workshop.

Accepted doctoral students will be scheduled for:
- Presentations of their job market papers.
- Interviews with interested institutions.

Although participation in the Talent Workshop is free for accepted candidates, some of them have financial issues to attend the Workshop and search for a job. In particular, such applies to candidates from emerging and transitional economies.

A support of this Talent Workshop would allow us to use the sponsor or support amount to finance traveling and accommodation expenses of candidates with financial problems to attend the Talent Workshop.

Sponsorship opportunities

As a recognition, the website and all information regarding the Talent Workshop will display the logo of the supporting or sponsoring institution or association and the institution or association will be recognized as sponsor at the event.
